Developing Your Personal Leadership Philosophy

Six Months From Now: Your Desired State

What is your self-talk?

What top three things would be different?

How do you interact with your colleagues on a day-to-day basis?

What role did each of your top three values play?

Who were your most significant allies?

---

Your Personal Leadership Philosophy

I hold these three values to be true because ...

I lead by ...

I expect ...

I do not accept ...

I am committed to ...

In the story of my life, I want people I care about to remember me for this ONE thing:

Making the Changes

To get you closer to your desired state in the next six months, consider the following:

Start

What is one thing you can start thinking, saying, or doing that would improve your current state?

When + how will you do this one thing?

Stop

What is one thing you can stop thinking, saying, or doing that would create more space for you to focus on your desired state?

How will you keep yourself in check + try to stop?

Address

What is something in your realm of control that you need to address or face in your personal or professional life?

How can you meet this thing with self-love + empathy? When will you do it?

Accept

What is some part of you or a part of life that is just the nature of the beast and could use your acceptance?

How will you embrace this part, and what will you say to remind yourself why?
